Health Department

A child Health Conference was held under the direction of the Division of Maternity, Infancy and Child Health, of the State Board of Health at which twenty three children were examined. Nineteen were found with defects.

Children found with defects were referred to their family physicians for correction.

Excellent cooperation was received from the townspeople and Miss Tierney, Red Cross Nurse, who assisted Mary Hurley, State Nurse, in preparing the conference and in follow up work.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the School Board and Citizens of Hopkinton:

This is my first annual report. It covers less than a full year of work and observation, as my period of service here began July 15, 1928.

Thanks to the efforts of my predecessor, Mr. Gaius H. Barrett, I found the schools of Hopkinton well organized and working under capable teachers. The good results of his supervision were evident in every school-room.

Comments on Table I—Statistical Report

The average percent of attendance for New Hampshire as last reported was 94.6. Most of the Hopkinton schools show a better record than this; and the average for the entire district was 94.9. Four of our schools, however, (Tyler, Farrington's Corner, Hopkinton Village Grammar and Hopkinton Village Primary) have a record lower than the State average.

In the matter of tardiness, the average for the State is slightly more than one tardiness per pupil for the year. Two of the schools at Contoocook Village—the Junior High, and Grades 5 and 6—have reason to be proud of the fact that there was less than one case of tardiness per pupil. The Tyler and Farrington's Corner school have an equally good record. On the other hand, the Contoocook village third and fourth grade room; the Hopkinton village primary room; the Hatfield and Main Road schools had far too many cases of late arrivals at school. Tardiness cannot well be prevented without the cooperation of parents. Is it too much to expect that fathers and mothers shall help to develop the habit of punctuality in their children by seeing to it that they get to school on time?

Our Schools and the Public

Our first opportunity during the present year to bring the results of school work to the attention of the public was at Hopkinton Fair, where the students of the High School carried off prizes in a creditable fashion. Then in November, during National Education Week, an evening session of high school classes was held, visited by a large number of interested people. Later in the year, some kind of public demonstration of work by the pupils of the elementary schools is to be made, and we hope many will take advantage of the opportunity to be present to see how and what our children learn.

The most frequent and significant means of contact between the parent and the school is the report card, which Peter and Polly bring home every six weeks for Mother and Dad to sign. Those marks—how much they mean to many a child and parent! And how hard it is to make them fair and truthful, every teacher knows. Where one teacher thinks it right to give an A, another would rate the work C, or perhaps D. As to marks, there is no rule a superintendent can make that would be fair, either. I do believe that "A" should stand for superior achievement, and I have asked teachers not to give it as a rank for work that is just ordinary. That fact may account for some reports that seem to parents this year lower than they should be. On the report cards in use now, an attempt is made to include some points of explanation regarding both school achievement and conduct or deportment. I hope these reports do carry more definite meaning to those who read them, and that the extra work involved on the part of the teacher is appreciated.

Items of General Interest

The crowded condition of our High School, mentioned year after year in my predecessor's reports, is no less acute. By the use of poorly lighted attic space for classrooms, and by letting a few pupils stand or share single seats with others during assembly periods, we manage to get along. It is evident that a new building, or an extension to the present one, must be provided soon.

Special emphasis is being placed this year by the teachers upon instruction in the most fundamental of all studies—reading. By means of standard tests and special study of individual cases, as well as vocabulary drills and the use of various practice devices, an earnest effort is being made to build a suitable foundation of reading ability, without which progress in other subjects cannot be made. Promotion from one grade to the next depends largely upon ability to read with understanding; and success in high school studies is almost impossible without reading skill.

Music is another subject, the value of which is increasingly being realized in America. By resolution of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association, it is recommended that music be given a place in the curriculum equivalent to that now occupied by other common school subjects. Many cities and towns, and some smaller communities, now have their instrumental classes, orchestras, and bands; and state-wide musical contests are becoming quite common. New Hampshire music supervisors have voted to undertake the project of an all-state orchestra, made of players from various high schools, to play at the next meeting of the State Teachers' Association. The growing enthusiasm for this ancient and modern art is being felt in our local schools. The work of Mrs. Ball, our music supervisor, for the past few years is showing excellent results. Definite progress in the development of skill in note-reading, part-singing, and music appreciation is being made. A rhythm orchestra among the primary children at Contoocook has been organized, and others are being planned. The classes in music and art appreciation, incorporated this year as a regular part of the high school curriculum, are proving very profitable under the direction of Headmaster Garland and Miss Leach.

The work of the school nurse, Miss Tierney, is to be commended. More than most of us realize, the success of children in doing their school work depends upon their physical health. The work of discovering and correcting physical defects, and instruction in desirable health habits, is a fundamental part of the work of the school.

In conclusion, grateful mention should be made of the faithful and loyal service rendered by the teachers of the district; the friendly counsel and support of the members of the School Board; and the willing cooperation of parents and other citizens as shown in many ways.

Respectfully submitted,

ALMON W. BUSHNELL,

Superintendent
